

ADMIRAL MARKETS UK LTD ANALYSIS DISCLAIMER

This disclaimer provides additional information regarding all analysis, estimates, prognosis, forecasts or other similar assessments or information (hereinafter "Publication") published on the website of Admiral Markets UK Ltd ("Admiral Markets"). Before making any investment decisions please pay close attention to the following:

1. The Publications are published for informative purposes only and are in no way to be construed as investment advice or recommendation.
2. Any investment decision is made by each client alone whereas Admiral Markets shall not be responsible for any loss or damage arising from any such decision, whether or not based on the Publication.
3. Each of the Publications is prepared by an analyst (hereinafter "Author") of Admiral Markets based on the Author's personal estimations.
4. To ensure that the interests of the clients would be protected and objectivity of the Publication would not be damaged Admiral Markets has established relevant internal procedures for prevention and management of conflicts of interest.
5. Whilst every reasonable effort is taken to ensure that all sources of the Publication are reliable and that all information is presented, as much as possible, in an understandable, timely, precise and complete manner, Admiral Markets does not guarantee the accuracy or completeness of any information contained within the Publication. The presented figures refer that refer to any past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results.
6. The contents of the Publication should not be construed as an express or implied promise, guarantee or implication by Admiral Markets that the client shall profit from the strategies therein or that losses in connection therewith may or shall be limited.
7. Any kind of previous or modeled performance of financial instruments indicated within the Publication should not be construed as an express or implied promise, guarantee or implication by Admiral Markets for any future performance. The value of the financial instrument may both increase and decrease and the preservation of the asset value is not guaranteed.

8. The projections included in the Publications may be subject to additional fees, taxes or other charges, depending on the subject of the Publication. The price list applicable to the services provided by Admiral Markets is publicly available from the website of Admiral Markets.

Risk disclosure: Forex and CFD trading carries high level of risk as is speculative in nature and may result in losses as well as profits. Before participating in such trading activities you may also seek advice from independent financial advisor to ensure you understand the risks involved. Read more at: <https://admiralmarkets.com/risk-disclosure>.